

Trickster Theatre - 2011/12

Kids as Global Citizens

For 20 years, in a Trickster residency, each school has chosen its own theme. That is still the case. But, now we are also using the web to support one special theme in a fantastic new way.

KidsGoGlobal.net

A web-based tool to enable teachers and students to connect to the theme of global citizenship.

Site goes public in April, 2011

Goals

- to enable kids to make a difference in communities around the world
- to help schools explore global issues
- to connect students from different cultures
- to support real projects with NGO's
- to connect to the curriculum
- to explore all of this using theatre and art

The Tools

- inter-active website linking schools with NGO's, and communities in the developing world
 - school visits from NGO's
- each school gets it's own website under the umbrella of the overall KidsGoGlobal website
 - video conferencing with partner schools and communities
 - curriculum links and resources, including theatre support

It's Your Website

- each schools gets it's own blog
- create your own web pages
- share your art with your school's Art Gallery

- share your ideas with your school's on-line staffroom
- definable permission levels - you're in control
- you get to keep your website (small yearly fee may apply)

Connect

- learn about global issues
- explore different regions
- discover what you can do
- connect to your curriculum
- connect to other students
- explore with theatre and art
- connect to other teachers
- get involved in projects

Create Theatre with Trickster

Create a theatre performance based on your research and projects related to being a Global Citizen.

Use the KidsGoGlobal website to share some of what you create through video, photos, scripts, and artwork.

The class above is performing with Trickster at the Saddledome - for the Dalai Lama. You can share too. Be a Global Citizen - go ahead - Make a Difference.

How to get Involved

For the first year, this project will be open only to schools doing Trickster Theatre Residency Programs.

Book a residency for 2011/12 , choose Kids Go Global as your theme - and away you go! You get to start documenting and sharing your "Kids as Global Citizens" projects and classwork.
